Concept of Alienation force of human history.
Through the influence of Feuerbach, Marx understands alienation as the domination of a subject by an estranged object of its own creation. For Marx, this subject is man, specifically the worker, and the object is capital, including all its social relations., For Marx, the problem of "alienation" is a major problem of class divided society where one section of people has been exploited by another section. Concepts like 'exploitation', 'power', 'money', 'human need' are inherently present in Marx's alienation. Marx's concept of alienation is closely associated with his concept of man and his freedom.,
