markets, their interactions, and the outcomes of interactions., Financial economics is the branch of economics characterized by a "concentration on monetary activities", in which "money of one type or another is likely to appear on both sides of a trade". Its concern is thus the interrelation of financial variables, such as prices, interest rates and shares, as opposed to those concerning the real economy.It has two main areas of focus:

asset pricing (or ..., Students can check DU
