findings in The Other Path: The Invisible Revolution in the Third World. The title was a deliberate jab at the Shining Path, then active in Peru. (It later targeted de Soto several times.) He argued that poor countries stayed poor not because of capitalism but because capitalism had not been developed sufficiently. In The Other Path, Hernando de Soto makes the populist argument for capitalism and property rights in the 3rd world. The social and economic environment of many 3rd world nations resembles feudalism, with entrenched economic privileges and near-overt ethnic discrimination.
