One of the things I enjoy about the Outback Vision Protocol is the program includes many tools to help you succeed at implementing the information included in the Protocol. I love the fact you never feel alone or overwhelmed by the information in the program. That's the problem with the Outback Vision Protocol, which was first sent to me by a patient. The extremely long infomercial-style presentation promised me that two marvelous supplements would cure very serious vision problems. My hearty presenter informed me that these supplements, with the addition of kangaroo meat, are what a keen-eyed group of soldiers use for superhuman vision. They cured his wife's eye problems and they could cure mine.
